K. P. LODGE INSTALLS
NEW OFFICERS

At Meeting at Victory Hall Monday night.

At their regular meeting at Victory Hall Monday night, Kappa Alpha Lodge No. 84 Knights of Pythias, installed the following officers:

Carl Ashby, C. C.

Charles Higgins, V. C.

Otter Tunney, Private.

Henry Ward, M. W.

Ernest Norton, E. of H. and

Jesus Phillips, M. of K.

Lawson Miles, P. O.

Arthur Sisk, O. O.

W. L. Phillips, Trustee.

These are all commendable

young men, and will no doubt make good officers, for they all have the interest of the lodge at heart.

After the installation ceremony a nice luncheon was served, and several of the members made interesting talks for the "Good of the Order" and on Pythianism in general.

The K. P. Lodge is one of the largest orders in the city, and have one of the finest halls in Western Kentucky. They have recently taken a new lease on life, as it were, and are now in a prosperous condition, and expecting work in abundance in the near future.

Success to the K. of P.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express gratitude to our many friends for their kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and death of our beloved ones.

Mrs. J. W. O'Reilly and family.

MISS ISABEL OSBORNE
DIES AT CAIRO, EGYPT

Daughter of Prominent Social Worker and Literary Man of Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 10.—News of the sudden death in Cairo, Egypt, of Miss Isabel Osborne, twenty two years old, daughter of Col. Thomas D. Osborne, one of Louisville's most prominent citizens, was received here last night by relatives. Fever was the cause of the young woman's death.

With her father, mother and sister, Julia, Miss Osborne was touring Europe when three members were stricken with the dread disease.

The cablegram which told of the speedy death of the young woman also conveyed the news that Mr. Osborne and his other daughter are considered past the danger point.

In case their conditions will permit, the party will leave for Louisville at once.

A young woman in Louisville was more widely known or more generally loved than Miss Isabel Osborne. The news of her death came as a great shock to her many friends in this city.

Col. Osborne are well known to the members of the Kentucky Press Association, having on several occasions attended the annual meetings and added greatly to the pleasure of active membership.

Col. Osborne is a literary man and one of the most earnest workers in the anti-tuberculosis fight and other worthy social and religious movements in Kentucky.

MRS. NARCIS FUGATE DEAD

One of Earlinton's Oldest and Best Women Gone to Rest.

The death of this good woman occurred Saturday morning about one o'clock. Though she had been in feeble health for some weeks and her passing away was hourly expected, yet it was a shock to her family and friends, all of whom loved Gracie Fugate, as she was familiarly known. Mrs. Fugate would have been eighty-two years of age the 22nd of this month. She has for many years been a member of the K. P. Church, South, and was a devout Christian woman, who made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Bettie Fugate. Her body was laid to rest at the Woodlawn Cemetery Sunday. Rev. W. O. Brandon, her pastor, conducted the funeral services.

pointed by Gov. Wilson.

Gov. Wilson appointed a delegation from Kentucky to the "Deadwood Conference," which is to be held at Atlanta next week. They are the Rev. Dr. W. W. Landrum and Capt. George C. Norton, of Louisville. The Governor was invited to appoint as many delegates from this State as he chose and he will be glad to name other delegates who may desire to go. The conference will be held under the auspices of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and will be attended by delegates from all over the country.

L. & N. CONDUCTORS
OPEN MEETING.

General Committee of Order for Railway System in Session at the St. George.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 10.—The general executive committee of the Order of Railway conductors, for the divisions embracing the entire L. & N. railroad system, will this morning begin its biennial session in room 64 at the St. George hotel. The meeting will be the first that this division committee has ever held north of the Ohio river. It was at the earnest request of L. P. Waltz, secretary of the Howell local lodge of the order, that the executive board members decided to come here.

The cablegram which told of the speedy death of the young woman also conveyed the news that Mr. Osborne and his other daughter are considered past the danger point.

CAPTAIN J. W.
SMITH DEAD

After Lingering Illness of Kidney Trouble.

REMAINS BURIED AT GRAPE
VINE CEMETERY TUESDAY.

Captain J. W. Smith, of Madisonville, died Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock at Walker's Sanatorium in Evansville, after a lingering illness of kidney trouble.

Captain Smith went to Hot Springs some time since in the hope of securing relief from his trouble, but grew worse and returned home, rapidly declining until the end.

Captain Smith was 57 years old and a retired saloon keeper. He was a brother to Thos. Smith, former mayor of this city, but now of Louisville. About 11 months ago Captain Smith shot and killed George Spiros, a Greek, in the Little Hotel in Madisonville for which he would have been tried at the February term of the circuit court. A civil suit, brought by the widow of Spiros was still pending.

His remains were brought to Madisonville Tuesday morning, and summoned by loving friends and relatives were buried at Grape Vine cemetery Tuesday afternoon, he having requested some time ago that his remains be buried there.

E. E. BROOKS AGAIN
CHIEF DISPATCHER

Many Changes in the Dispatchers Office, and Some New Men.

Citizens of the city of Fordville, Ohio county, have filed a complaint with the State Railroad Commission regarding connections which the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis and the Madisonville, Hartford and Eastern railroads make for their inconvenience. The new schedule has gone into effect, which they say is such that convenient connections cannot be made. The two lines cross each other about a mile from Fordville, in a low bottom, which is mostly "mud mud," so the complaint goes, with no station, platform or any conveniences for the comfort or convenience of passengers from the other roads.

The citizens ask that the train be required to go to Fordville, so that people may make connections they desire without inconvenience as is caused under the new arrangement, which has just gone into effect.

BEWARE OF THE "ROBBERS."

Robbers Forecast Say Air is Sor-ched Charged With New Deadly Germ.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 11.—Harry Leung Witt, the weather forecaster, not only dispenses forecasts but accompanies them with health hints. He came out today with a new and rather startling one, to the effect that Pittsburgh air was supercharged with "pogonip," and he urged people outdoors should hang over their mouths and nostrils a little sprig of clove bread.

The business was handled by this arrangement until last year, when the falling off in railroad business made it necessary to close the block office and yard office.

By Drifting Landmarks.

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 10.—John H. Smith, of Bull's Gap, Green county, Tenn., had this morning committed suicide by shooting himself in the head while standing in a hollow tree here. He had no relatives here and left nothing to show cause of his act.

Get Railroad Passes.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Employers of express and sleeping car companies are to be accorded the same exemption from the anti-pass provisions of the interstate commerce act, as are now accorded to the railroad employees and their families, according to the terms of a bill introduced by Senator Wilkins to the Senate.

L. & N. President Waited Three Years to Find Assistant.

FINALY FOUND RIGHT MAN.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 5.—Hon. Peyton today was appointed a assistant to President Merton Smith of the L. & N. railroad, a place vacant for three years because Smith could find no one capable and at the same time personally satisfactory to himself.

W. L. Mapother, first vice president formerly was assistant to Smith.

Quail Are Dying by the Hundred.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 10.—As a result of the severe winter weather of the last few weeks quail are dying by hundred throughout Central Kentucky. Farmers report that owing to the deep snow, the birds have been unable to get anything to eat, and that starvation and cold combined have played havoc with them. Large numbers of dead quail have been found in the fields and woods of this section.

WOE TO THE HOUSE FLY

Altruistic Enthusiasts Will Slaughter Him.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Another altruistic campaign is about to be launched from Washington General headquarters have been established here in the United Trust building, and Mr. Rich B. Watrous, its secretary, who has been placed in charge, will urge on congress the enactment of public legislation.

One of the things aimed at is the creation of a national park at Niagara Falls.

President Taft became member of the association which was secretary of war.

The regulation of billboards and the abatement of smoke nuisance are part of the association's program, and while it is interested in the comprehensive planning of cities, it also wages war on that disease carrying pest, the house fly.

Both of the latter topics were generally discussed at the recent convention held in Cincinnati and it was agreed to make a national campaign along those lines.

The association has also undertaken a campaign for a national park at Niagara Falls.

That is the opinion of Experts.

Are Doctors Any Good?

Foolish question! Yet some people act as if a medicine could take the place of a doctor! The best medicine in the world cannot do this. Have a family doctor, consult him frequently, trust him fully. If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds, we would not offer it to you. Ask your doctor.
No alcohol in this cough medicine. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

We did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Pills for constipation, biliousness, etc., etc., we would not offer them to you. Ask your own doctor about this.

The Donells Coming.

"Well, say, that was great,"
was heard remarked by a woman
as she left the Park Theater last evening, says the Henderson Gleaner. She had just witnessed the production by the Bonnelli company. This outfit of amuses played to a crowded house, and nothing but words of praise were heard for it. Vaudeville, comedy, sketches and moving pictures make up a bill that is pleasing to everyone.

The fat man with the Christmas gong can forget his pain and the slim woman forgets how badly
the seat hurts. The company played at Owensboro last week to a record week's attendance.

Manager Collins, of the Park, said last night he believes the Owensboro record will be beaten in this city.

This company will be at Temple Theatre all next week.

Prices 10 and 20 cents.

When Arlington Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any render of this kind continue to suffer the torture of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes or any kidney ailment. It is no near at hand a man to most positive proof given that they can be cured.
Read what an Arlington citizen says:

John Franklin, Earlington, Ky., says: "For two years my attorney was in over it. When I stopped it the sharp twinges disappeared through my spine and there was an almost complete pain in the small of my back. I am easily, frequently subject to rheumatism and was also troubled by diaphrosis. I was caused additional annoyance by the frequent passage of urine due to the fact that I had to urinate so often during the night. I have since been cured of the kidney trouble and received some prompt relief after use of the I-ontinent. I am now completely cured and recommend Dean's Kidney Pills too highly."

GLOWING TRIBUTE PAID TO WALLACE

NOTED MEN ATTEND UNVEILING CEREMONIES AND LAUD HIS MEMORY.

"LOVED LIBERTY FOR ALL MEN"

Statute of Soldier, Statesman and Author Given Place Among Nation's Greatest—Gov. Marshall Accepts Shaft for Indiana.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Indiana was joined by the rest of the nation here in paying honor to her distinguished son, Gen. Lew Wallace, soldier, statesman and author, when a statue of the famous Indiana was unveiled in Statuary Hall, John P. McGraw, for three years General Wallace's chief of staff during the Civil War, presided at the dedicatory exercises.

Willie Allen Woods of the statue commission made the official presentation, and the statue was formally accepted on behalf of the state by Governor Marshall. Lew Wallace, Jr., grandson of the general, unveiled the figure.

The program included the reading of the original poem by James Whitcomb Riley, and addresses by Senator A. J. Beveridge of Indiana, A. J. Rains, chargé d'affaires of the Turkish embassy, and William H. Andrews, a delegate from New Mexico.

Glowing Tribute Paid.

In a tribute to General Wallace Senator Beveridge said:

"He loved liberty for all men, and he fought for it. He worshipped the nation for what the American nation means, and to save the nation he gladly offered his life on many a battlefield. He studied law for the betterment of human condition. He wrote noble books, one of which, translated into every modern and even into one Oriental tongue, has lifted all the world near the Savior of mankind.

He was a typical American, because he represented those qualities which founded, built and saved the nation.

"Indiana proudly unveils this statue of the soldier and law-giver, author and idealist, dreamer of beautiful things, for better things for his fellow men, and wielder of a sword and pen which helped those dreams to come true."

The Senate at to-day's session formally accepted the statue on behalf of the United States.

Author of "Ben Hur."

The memorial to the soldiers of the Mexican and civil wars and the author of "Ben Hur" stands side by side with the marble figure of Indiana's war governor, Oliver P. Morton.

Andrew O'Connor, now residing in Paris, was the American sculptor chosen to depict the material to the Indiana soldier. The figure is slightly over life size and, with the pedestal, would stand something over ten feet high. It is of white marble, while the base is a square block of Indiana limestone.

There are no two opinions as to the beauty of the memorial; for adverse criticism has to do only with detail. The omission of the military hat is explained by those who know the artist's views by the statement that Wallace is not on the field or at the head of his troops, but may be described as having just emerged from his tent. He is bare-headed and carelessly fastened. He is erect in posture and on the alert, his eye glancing into the distance.

FEAR CITY LEAVES STATE
inroads. of the Mississippi River Threaten to Move Cairo From Illinois to Missouri.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Congressman Napoleon B. Thistlewood of Illinois is making an effort to secure an appropriation for a series of surveys on the Mississippi River between Cairo and Thebes. Thistlewood is hopeful of a favorable report from the army engineers on proposed protective works that will cost $200,000. The protection work is designed to prevent overflows.

Above Cairo the Mississippi makes a long winding bend back, forming what has been called a great loop. The tendency of the channel is to cut across the country and eliminate this bend. If it ever does so, Illinois men admit that the water of the Mississippi will run into the Cache River, leaving the Father of Waters altogether for many miles and placing Cairo in the state of Missouri instead of Illinois.

Rockefeller Jury Holds Two.
New York, Jan. 12.—The special grand jury, headed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., returned indictments against two men alleged to be engaged in the white slave traffic.

Killed When Sidewalk Falls.
Chicago, Jan. 12.—One laborer was crushed to death and ten pedestrians injured when a sidewalk in front of a State street department store collapsed here.

Oil Fails in Locomotives

New York Central to Give It Up as a Foul.

New York, Jan. 11.—Oil burning locomotives are more or less of a failure according to the New York Central railroad, which, after a season's trial, has elected in favor of coal as the most economical fuel.

"The conditions in Mexico and the southwest of this country are entirely different," explained Howard Ingerson, assistant to the general manager of the Central lines today. "Our experiments show that the oil will not run properly in cold weather, which necessitates the changing back to coal for the winter months."

A Self-Confessed "Ham" Operator Now at Head of Rock Island.

The doors of the office of president of the Rock Island Railroad have just swung open to a new man who entered quietly, took off his coat, and went to work. This man, Henry U. Mudge, was no stranger to the office, having been second vice-president of the system for some time, but the whole railroad was tip-toe, nevertheless, to know what his policy would be as head of the property.

Mr. Mudge dismissed speculation and fears at once by starting simply that the railroad would be run as a railroad. The new president has been schooled in the operation of a railroad, and not in the machinations of Wall Street. The Rock Island, he said, will be managed without regard to the clicking of the tickers.

Mr. Mudge, asked how he had won his way from track laborer to railroad president, said he could point to no one factor. His conclusions were expressed in these aphorisms: "Overwork never killed anybody. It is the work a man leaves undone and worries over that kills. Opportunity may knock several times, but it is the man who recognizes his opportunity the first time it presents itself, and is ready for an emergency who wins. The man who is taking proper interest in his work is not waiting for the clock to show quitting time. He is so busy that it comes before he wants it to. I used to be a 'ham' telegraph operator out in Kansas myself, and I believe it is a good thing for a man to remember his own experience when dealing with the shortcomings of others"—Kansas City Star.

American people are now eat bread of a delicate, amber or, instead of of the very white bread all have been accustomed to for years. This new color means purity, it is because our pure food laws prohibit the use of chemicals formerly used to bleach the flour, and the new bread is sweeter and better than the old, dead article, though it may not some fastidious cooks and epicures.

Secretary Wilson knows how friends with the farmer, if the farmer does not get nice of his products, but middlemen are the ones who reap the profits. The carrier, the miller, the boy man, the baker, all add profit to the original price paid to the farmer. But secretary is not immune to what any plan by which farmer could get his wheat into the hands of the man. In the form of bread, of course, can be eliminated. Not even the farmer himself eliminate Miller's charge, nor all the handling to and from the car, and he doesn't want to, of all the argument the cost of labor and bread is based on price of wheat in the hands. It is certainly true, however, that there are too middlemen and that many would be better off, and try world could certainly be if they were producers of crops instead of retailers of them and their products.

Gladstone's Greatness.
When Gladstone arose in the house common every voice was hushed he instant and every ear strained to catch the slightest intonation of his low voice. That voice was just the one with which he saluted his wife, an orchid, which he had carefully dried a little higher. There was no spring after oratory, no attempt at flying in speech. It was the very essence of the man. In everything made Gladstone truly great.

Young Fetherley (with an amused smile)—"Ahl I see, Miss Clara, that you are one of the few left who believe that Bacon wrote Shakespeare's plays. I wonder if the question will ever be satisfactorily settled?"

Just a Suggestion.

In Shakespearian days they used to label the scenes. They are still doing so, and I wonder—"This is a castle." "This is a castle." We don't need to do that now. Still, we might use the scheme to advantage. It would help sometimes to see an alleged Theban bearing the legend, "This is an actor."

Thomas Browne, author of the "Religio Medici," believed in witches. "For my part, I have never believed, and do not believe, that there are witches. They that doubt of these do not only deny them, but spirits, and are obliquely, and upon consequence a sort, not of infidels, but atheists."

Sweet Money

Wealth Yields Goodly Fruitage

By ADA MAY BRECKER

ften we are given to the idea that we must have more money to live comfortably. Religious often offer their dusters to us for higher calls than mere. And the great heroes usually have proved indifferent to its chances. Tom and Whitman and Edward Carpenter and many others of now and of yore have voluntarily renounced it and chosen poverty for their bribe. Many more, both famed and obscure, have found it no sufficient end, but selected their alms solely with a view to intrinsic exogeneity and let money come or not as it would.

The sociologists, moreover, have observed that wealth tends to harden men's hearts, whereas poverty often the weaker emotions and softens and refines, deepens and expands the soul. The prayerful go farther and discover in riches the root of all evil and in indigence a means of grace, an influence purifying the heart and making for Loyal-mindedness.

All which being demonstrated Money is seen in a bad light. But its case is not hopeless.

In days more aristocratic than ours there were fewer folks than now with money. But they were the favored few. They were the people who had handsome homes, delightful gardens, delectable foods. They were the people who had graceful figures, beautiful faces, health, long life. They had refinement, gentleness, urbanity, charm. They had learning, culture, talent, genius. They read the books and wrote them. They composed the music, painted the pictures, evolved philosophy and science and metaphysics.

They had all of this and did all of this because they were possessed of money.

Had they, like the poor, been starved for generations, they would have been equally plain and pinched. Had they worked like the poor for generations they would have been similarly awkward and uncouth. Had they lived in the houses of the poor for generations they would have been sickly and ill formed, and from time to time they would have died off in plagues and pestilences. Had they been without tuition fees and elegant mathe they would have been wit' erudition.

So we cannot blame those who behave as if money were the root of all good. They are more than half right. They know that money yields goodly fruitage. And in producing wealth they are contributing not to the ease of themselves alone but to the world's at large. And they hold a place of genuine dignity and honor. And they are courted with most distinct propriety by penniless nobles. For they can furnish the raw material out of which the old nobility was made.

In face of many flagrant exceptions it is only simple truth that gentleness, beauty and achievement have ever been the natural affinities and partners of the good god Mammom.

Last fall I drew attention to Noah Webster's view of some natural relation obtaining between great comets and pestilences and also of a probable reappearance of cholera this spring in Russia. A report has just come from St. Petersburg of hundreds of cases of cholera and that doctors fear an unprecedented epidemic, perhaps spreading over all Europe. I also mentioned some time ago a conviction that the next great war would be in the near east (probably Turkish) and closely connected with the appearance of Halley's comet about May, 1910. I may be wrong in this and the great war may really be, as many believe, between England and Germany. A great appearance of this comet occurred in A.D. 1066, when England was invaded by the Normans, and another great one in A.D. 1156, when all Europe was threatened by the great Turkish invasion.

I would not be too dogmatic; perhaps the comet will prove to be no sign or cause of pestilence this time at all, nevertheless it will be interesting to watch the outcome.

I fear greatly that if Germany enters into any extensive war she will sooner or later lose Rhenish Prussia, west of the Rhine, Baden, Wurttemberg, Bavaria, etc., France and Austria annexing these. In the west east it seems a separation of European Turkey from Asiatic Turkey will soon take place, thus forming two kingdoms or powers out of one. Great and mighty events are ahead of us in the physical (or natural) world, the political world, etc., all coming to a climax in all probability in later than A.D. 1935, and perhaps much sooner.

The whole system of life is wrong! Did you ever see an optimist that wasn't earning a good salary? Walt Mason and Kaufman and all those other so-called "boasters" have probably just had a good meal when they sit down and reel off yard after yard of cheerfulness.

It may be perfectly proper to talk about the world owing you a living, but you have to be a supernumerary collector to get it. Why, one can't go to church to hear the homily expounded and to have his soul saved without their trying to separate him from his money in return.

The men who best work the least. The men who suppose work eight or ten hours for a bare living.

As I wait for about I wonder if humanitv would be better off without or would there be one less parasite? Would—but what's this? There goes a smiling couple helping a blind man across the street. Holy smoke! I better cut out this line of talk. If a cripple can stand, surely a man with a full complement of limb ought to be able to.

And here in the newspaper is the story of a banker going to Sing Sing for embezzlement. Well, I'm honest if I only have two bits.

I wander into the Y. M. C. A., attracted by music. Who is playing but a man I've just passed on the street, anxiously scanning the "help wanted" column.

Well, this old world isn't so bad after all. Buck up, old man. Your liver is torpid. You need a run around the block and, by the way, thank God you can run.

Visit Our New Store

We have moved to 109 South Main St., next door to The Dulin Store in the building formerly occupied by C. B. Long.

We have a larger store room and it is our intention to make changes and remodel our store and make it one of the nicest Drug Stores in the county.

Call and see us, we carry everything that can be found in a first-class Drug Store.

A Common Insinuation.

Nearly every man who does not possess an automobile takes it upon himself to explain now and then that he could have one if he didn't pay his debts.

Few Would Care.

Heine: Even with the most honest intentions no man can tell the truth about himself.

Strength Misplaced.
There are some strong features mentioned in Mrs. Felt's boarding house advertisement." Then I'll bet she put in the coffee and left out the butter."

Largest Pin Factory.
Blindmington, Eng., has the largest pin factory in the world, manufacturing an average of $7,000,000 a day.

SHOES.

The world holds lots of trouble
Who can give a chip the likes
But there's none that girl's fondness
When a fellow's gone to heaven
And he has to limp along
But she'll never sing a song.

By the same sign, while we're singing
These two sinners 'bout the feet,
There is naught more comfort singing
Than a pair of old mud-plasters
Cut to fit a fellow's foot.
Thoughts of home bring on "smashers,"
Boiling more life they adorn.

"TIS EVER THUS.

A foot and his automobile are soon paired.

No, You Can't.

The world is long,
And the way is long,
But you can't make friends
With a trouble song.

The Gloomey Outlook.

Trust President—Is there no way
we can put this competing company out of business without getting into trouble ourselves?

Legal Adviser—I fear not, the way things seem to be going now.

T. P.—But competition will be so excessive.

L.A.—You will have to cut down your expenses.

T. P.—That's true. I say, James, you can tear up that check I told you to fill out for African missionary work.

Silver Lining.

Wife (reading)—Here's another case of a bachelor going wrong. The son of a workman, aged 40, has been sent to the penitentiary for embezzlement.

Husband—Well, he's in luck.

Wife—Why, how do you make that out?

Husband—Ho! have a quiet, peaceful time of it until he gets out—then he'll be too old to marry.

Drawing the Line.

"No," said the fussy old bachelor,
"I'm not an advocate of boarding house socialism." No, indeed!

"What do you mean by boarding house socialism?" queried the shrewd woman.

"It's the kind," explained the f. o. b.,
"that gives everybody an equal chance at the piano."

LOVE WILL LIGHTEN THE LOAD.

Stockton Bonds—Take this basket of fruit to 444 Groveon square. It's not too heavy for you, is it?

Messenger Boy—I won't be after a while, sir.

Soliciting.

I've never seen a diplo-dome—
Maybe never will.
No doubt, most any hour you please
Stuffed would fill the bill.

Gates Them.

Church—I hear your doctor's got three automobiles?

Gotham—That's right. He's bound to get the people coming or going—Yonkers Statesman.

Mistaken.

"Dear me!" I'm awfully tired,
We've had the piano tuner here all afternoon."

"Oh, was that the tuner? I thought it was your daughter playing again."

The Cost of Fretting.

"They say everything in life is attained to certain keys. What keys are the slippery places in life tuned to?"

"I guess they are see sharp or be-flat."

A Muddy Stream.

I see where a man wants to give E.
Harriman the Missouri river."

"Um—that's merely a way of throwing mud."

The Old-Fashioned Way.

I saw our new neighbor this morning who swept through her parlor—
"With queenly grace!"

"Ho! with a broom."

SLIPPING AWAY.

Just for a day to dream by the river,
Just for a day to rest
In the shade of the trees
Where the ghost of a breeze
Plies a wandering quest,
And the birds sing their song
With never a sign.

And never a pain on blot,
And never a care on blot,
Nor a crumpled to worry about
And the ways of the world are forgot!

Just for a day to lay down the burden,
Just for a day to lay down the stress
And the fight for success
And the roar of life's hot fire;
To lay down the load
In a mutton song heard
With giddy gloomy feelings to rout,
With Love's soft song to lull
In the heart of a roamer
And there's nothing to worry about!

FLOOD WIPES OUT TOWN IN NEVADA

CALIENTE RESIDENTS ARE LIVING UNSHELTERED IN THE HILLS.

HOUSES ARE FILLED WITH MUD

Water Rushes Down on Village Like Avalanche and Homes Flood Like Seas—Passengers Camping in Railroad Coaches.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 7.—The little town of Caliente, Nev., flooded by torrents from melting snow in the canons, is today a scene of hideous desolation. Rising like a wall of water, the mud and flood of the muddy current leveled whole hillsides where the railroad ran and raged over the town like an avalanche. The wrecks of dwellings floated off like so many houseboats.

At the worst stage of the disaster people deserted their homes and fled to the hills. Here they are exposed to the cold and the mud and exposed to temperatures many degrees below zero. So far as known, however, but one person has drowned.

Every home in the town that remains standing has been rendered unserviceable for occupancy. The interiors are veritable mud puddles. All the hot springs remain waterless over the springs of broken doors.

No secret is made of the fact that through traffic over the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake railroad is a prospect too remote for speculation. "Just what the damage is we do not know," said General Manager Wells, "but it looks as if you could be in fair shape." On a train in the midst of a Nevada flood, is described by C. C. Moore, train agent, and N. Anderson, of Grand For. I. N. D., who were the first to reach Salt Lake from the train that was stalled east Caliente. The men left the train Wednesday and walked to Carley, where they came to the aid of Salt Lake.

"The train got into Caliente New Year's morning all day," said Korn. "We were a mile west of Kinto, when we found the track under water. The engineer took the train back toward Caliente. "Our passengers camped in one car, and the rest had to go to economic use, between sawing and splitting wood for fuel and playing jokes on the porter, we were fairly busy. Food was plentiful at first, but was cut to two men a day just before we left. Then only real eating was for tobacco which was used up early."

MABRAY CASE IS DROPPED

LITTLE ROCK Prosecutor Fails to Get Evidence to Try Foot Race Gang in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 7.—So far as the state courts of Arkansas are concerned, the grand larceny charges against J. C. Mabray and his associates, Warner Clarke and Johnson, the millionaire club swindler gang, will never be heard. The indictments were dismissed by a judge of the Prosecuting Attorney Roy D. Campbell.

These men were arrested here last February by Post Officer Inspector Swenson. Operatives by which the gang had swindled hundreds of people on fake foot and horse races and wrestling matches were disclosed. It was learned that the gang, which had been steered $10,000 here on a horse race, and W. L. Ray of Woodward, Okla., suffered a $1,000 loss on a foot race. Neither witness could be induced to corroborate the gang, and give testimony, and as "Prosecuting Attorney Campbell could not have attempted to dislodge the cases."

Violent Rock Game Dying.
Livingston, Mont., Jan. 7.—Reports from the Yellowstone National park are that large numbers of wild game are perishing from the effects of the severe storm that has prevailed throughout the park for several days. The snow has fallen to an unusual depth and it is impossible for the large herds of elk, deer and antelope to secure food.

Burned Train Makes Record.
Denison, Tex., Jan. 7.—Making a record-breaking run from Sherman to Denison, the Houston Texas Central passenger train, which had been unable to make car a mass of flames. The local fire department was called, and after hard work extinguished the blaze. The car was badly damaged, but no man lost.

Falls 30 Feet With Aeroplane.
Chicago, Jan. 7.—A man, John Englehardt, a New York man who was operating an aeroplane of the Blériot type, fell with his machine 30 feet. He was severely injured and the aeroplane was wrecked.

Oil Explosion Kills Two.
Chicago, Jan. 7.—Two men are dead and four others seriously injured as the result of an explosion in the engine room of the Louisville pumping station. The two dead victims were burned beyond recognition. They were Philip Julian, 58, coal passer, and Michael O'Donnell, assistant night en-

Backward.

Asticte had a civilization thousands of years ago. The interior of that country is populated today by farmers to whom modern knives and forks are unknown; the spoons they use are of wood, and each family makes its own.

The Society's Wide Scope.
"This society differs from many others of its kind," exclaimed a speaker at a recent meeting, "not only to embrace gentlemen, but also ladies. Loud applause and laughter caused the speaker to think that he had said enough.

Letters Left in the Rubrics.

By a traveler in Italy the Rubicon, the famous river crossed by Julius Caesar, is described as "the merest trickle of a stream, in which it would be quite impossible for a man to drown himself."

Over-Moderate Lover.
"You've ruined the sweet young man," I have broken off the engagement. I have been thinking it over for a long time, and I've come to the conclusion that a girl who can love an idiot like me must be wanting in both taste and intelligence."

Observation.

The majority of men go through the world without cultivating the faculty of observation. How many of them, for instance, have ever taken the trouble to find out the number of buttons there are on the backs of the waists worn by their wives?

She knew.

"How is your wife getting along with her cooking?" "First rate, why, she can make a cake now that she can give a trap without feeling guilty of murder."—Detroit News Tribune.

Law Courses Lengthened.

More than two-thirds of the American law schools have lengthened their average course from two to three years, according to a New York editor. —From the Green Bag.

Good Rule to Follow.

What is worth doing is worth doing well; and with little more trouble at first, much trouble afterwards may be avoided.—Max Muller, Letter to John Bowes.

Digestion Reflected in Voices.

Be cheerful, keep your disposition serene and genial. If you are a croaker you will have a croaking voice. If you are sunny your talk will be sunny and it will flow like liquid amber in a stream that will refresh your listeners.

Following Men's Examples.

"Oh, we're like our father," says the author. "I am a good man, but my father, whom you know wrote his masterpiece up under the roof." "Where's your authority for that?" The author replied with a smile. —From the Attic.

Hard to Classify.

"How about this new student's idea of orthography?" said one professor. "It has me puzzled," replied the other. "I can't decide whether he is simply illiterate or a spelling reformer in advance of his time."

A Conservative Editor.

A Chicago monkey starves himself to death because his master dies. We're to comment till we learn what final disposition the man's widow makes of him.—Cleveland Leader.

Made a Good Job.

Minerva had just sprung from the brow of Jove. "I always had a good head for figures," he cried. Herewith he eyed the classic outline approachingly.

A Mechaumach City.

The town of Valdecas, in Spain, is almost entirely built of mechaumach. Valdecas has on its outskirts great quarries of a mechaumach rock famous for pipemaking.

An Every Day Philosophy.

FIENDS ARE IDENTIFIED

VICTIM SWOONS WHEN SHE FACES NEGROES.

Court Officials Cry as Mrs. W. H. Jackson Tells Heart-Breaking Story to a Jury.

Kansas City, Jan. 5.—Screaming "You devils! You devils!" an색-faced George Reynolds and John Williams, the negroes who have confessed their guilt of an attack on her the night of December 23, Mrs. W. H. Jackson fainted on the stand in the criminal court.

The negroes attacked her on the steps in a residence district of the city and dragged her to a vacant house.

The ordeal of telling the story was made as easy as possible for Mrs. Jackson. The jury gathered around her so that she could tell the story in a low tone, and her chair was so placed that she would not have to face her assailants.

When it came time for her to identify the negroes she faced them reluctantly, screamed and then fainted. Court officials and policemen tried when they heard Mrs. Jackson's story. The judge was pale and stern and the jury present.

"Oh, must I? I must, but I see them all the time and always shall; but I look at them like a hawk," she said.

She was not cross-examined and after her recovery was carried from the room.

The accused were found guilty of assault and sentence was fixed at six months.

CHINESE NATURALIZATION LAW.

By China's law on nationality any person who has lived in China over 20 years and is 21 years of age, of good moral standards, being helpful to China, may be allowed to assume Chinese nationality, if asked for.

WOMEN FORM FIRE BRIGADE.

The women of Allington, Conn., have organized for the protection of their village from fire. They are to hold a country fair, the proceeds of which will be used to buy apparatus.

They will also form a woman's brigade of the fire department.

HOW DID HE KNOW?

An ancient Egyptian moralist, writing to his son, says: "If thou takest a wife, try to make her happier than thyself; if thy wife is better than thyself, then be doubly bound to her; then she will be doubly bound to thee; if she is sweet to her—accord her what pleases her—but she will appreciate the effort."

GOOD ALARM CLOCK.

Husband: "Why don't you have Bridget shut the kitchen door? One can smell the breakfast cooking all over the house." Wife: "We leave it open on purpose. The smell is all that gets the family up."—Judge.

TALKING BUSINESS.

The man: "You don't know how beautiful you are!" The girl: "Look here! I've a mirror, and I've known other men. What I don't know is how rich you are. Do you want to talk business?"

DAILY THOUGHT.

We pass for what we are. Character teaches above our wills. Men imagine that they communicate their virtue or vice only by overt actions, and do not see that virtue or vice emit a breath every moment!—Excerpts.

CHARACTER.

Character is the divinest thing on earth. It is the one thing that you can put into the shop or into the study and be sure that the fire is going burn.—Phillip Brooks.

GASTRONOMIC DISASTER.

A big fat oldman at a turle dinner exclaimed to a bore: "Your congealed questions and talk have made me swallow a big piece of green turke without getting to taste it."

WOMAN'S NATURE.

"Don't you think, Mary, you are too old to play with the boys?" "No, mamma; the older I get the better I like them."—Judge.

USELESS VANITY.

Of course there is no sense in a lady putting on her hat before the performance is over if she is sitting in the last row.

VIRTUE AND CASH.

... women think they would rather have good husbands than rich ones but few of them turn down to get the money.

DON'T USE IT.

CRIMINALS HAVE SHORT ARMS.

A French reporter discovered the criminals have shorter arms than the more law-abiding members of the community.

Composition Extraordinary.

In E. V. Lucas' volume on letter writing, an Indian baba is quoted to effect: "Honourable Sir: Kindly accept this poor fellow's offer of sending you your fine office fees on account of your snake bite. As I am an infirmite called the snake, the most you can do for me is to let me die in peace."

High Cost of Beauty.

Though the prescription seems to have disappeared from the market, it is still in use.

It was once considered ridiculous to wear cosmetics.

Now the Englishwoman finds the women's clubs and social clubs, not a body which holds monthly meetings—an excellent institution for both married and single.

For the married woman it is a "own place," where her husband cannot worry her, while for the unmarried it is a place where she can never be dull and where she can never entertain friends of both sexes.

Notes of Women.

A French book on the evolution of the Englishwoman finds the women's clubs and social clubs, not a body which holds monthly meetings—an excellent institution for both married and single.

For the married woman it is a "own place," where her husband cannot worry her, while for the unmarried it is a place where she can never be dull and where she can never entertain friends of both sexes.

ECONOMY IN CORRESPONDENCE.

"About the most economical correspondence I've heard of," remained Assistant Postmaster of Toledo, Ohio.

"Two or three weeks ago I stopped at a window downtown the other day and wanted to know if it would be all right if they both were to write to me on the same post card and then save the cost," Cleveland Dealer.

WHY NOT?

A very prepossessing youth was seen at a reproduction of that famous group of statuary known as "The Last Supper."

"Do you know what that called?" asked his reverent friend.

"I'm not sure," replied the other, "I should guess that it is 'Father, I'm sorry.'

WHY WAY?

A woman is unreasonable enough to expect her husband to be as long forgotten as their wedding day as she herself is, though she remembers it for the first time in which she looked so stunning and he only for the agreeable fool he sold himself to."
